WARNING

By clicking below, you are confirming that the employer has read and agrees with the following conditions.

Employers have clear obligations related to records keeping, maintaining accurate, current information with Employment Standards, and upholding the terms and conditions of the employment contract or Labour Market Impact Assessment. It is very important that employers know their responsibilities in order to avoid liability.

- The Worker Recruitment and Protection Act strictly prohibits employers and any third party assisting with recruitment from charging fees to workers.
- With few exceptions, employers who choose to use a third party to recruit a foreign worker must make sure they are licensed.
- Employment Standards posts a list of licensed recruiters on the website at http://www.gov.mb.ca/labour/standards/asset_library/pdf/wrapa_valid_licensees.pdf or you can contact Employment Standards.

Employment Standards will only consider applications for the employer to recruit without a licensed recruiter if:

- the employer is qualified to be registered
- the foreign worker will be earning at least twice Manitoba's industrial average wage (see the website at http://www.gov.mb.ca/labour/standards/doc.wrapa-registration_info.factsheet.html)
- An offence under the Act is subject to fines as high as $50,000.00, with Directors and officers of a corporation subject to additional $25,000.00 fines. Examples of offences include: recruiting without registering, using an unlicensed recruiter, charging fees to foreign workers, and providing false information.
- Employers who don't use a licensed recruiter are liable for all fees charged to the recruited foreign worker.
- Employers who violate the legislation may lose their right to register to recruit foreign workers.

The Government of Manitoba encourages employers to recruit locally wherever and whenever possible.

- Manitoba Immigration may follow-up with you directly to inform you about skilled immigrants already in Manitoba who can be recruited at no cost through our local Immigrant Employment services.

The Government of Manitoba facilitates legal and effective recruitment of skilled workers from outside of Canada when those workers cannot be recruited from inside the country.

- Manitoba Immigration may follow-up with you directly to inform you about international partnerships and recruitment opportunities that could assist you in sourcing the skills you need without the involvement of paid third-party recruiters.

More information about our Immigrant Employment Services and International Partnerships can be found on our website at www.immigratemanitoba.com
